Wool Scouring Plant

The establishment of a wool scouring plant, valued at $50,000, capable of handling the bulk of Alberta's annual wool clip, is now assured for the province, according to authoritative information available in Edmonton. Just where the plant will be located is not yet decided. Four locations are being considered by the eastern firm handling the proposition Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. One of the main considerations is proper railway facilities for both inward and outward shipments. The annual wool clip of the provinces runs between 3,600,000 and 4,000,000 lbs. The largest proportion is produced in Southern Alberta, but there are a number of important producing areas in the central and northern parts of the province. It is stated that the financial arrangements for the plant have now been completed and that installation can be commenced as soon as a definite location is arranged. The position is being closely studied by the provincial trade commissioners office at Edmonton.

A saving of thousands of dollars in preparing grasshopper mixture in Alberta has been effected by the pulverization of the sawdust used, on the recommendation of the Dominion Seed Branch inspectors, thereby resulting in the use of only 20 per cent of bran instead of 50 per cent as formerly.

This work is proceeding on some 27 sections of main highways in different parts of the Province.

Farmers' Use of Good Seed

There never was a time when farmers were more alive to the desirability of the use of good seed than now, stated W. T. G. Weiner, secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, on a recent visit to Alberta. Last year the association was sold out of seed by the middle of March, said Mr. Weiner.

Acreages In Grains

Tentative estimates of acreages in various grain crops in Alberta have been issued this week in company with those of other provinces, by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The figures for Alberta are as follows: Wheat, 7,501,000 acres compared with 7,980,000 last year; oats, 2,870,000 acres; barley, 749,000; rye, 235,000 and flax 18,100 acres.

During the year 1933, Canada produced a total of 3,189,000 hogs; Alberta produced 1,032,000.

More Money For Highways

Completion of the Edmonton-Sherwood Park Highway on all-weather route, and the completion of the necessary reconstruction on the upper end of the Calgary-Banff Park highway, is largely assured as a result of arrangements made with the Federal Government by Gen. Headley, for a vote totalling $125,000, marked for the Jasper road and $150,000 marked for the trans-Canada highway in Alberta. The latter provided for work both east and west of Calgary. In addition, the Federal Government has granted a vote of $100,000 monthly to Alberta for direct relief, which is somewhat larger than had been expected.

Some of the work on the two park highways will be done this season, but some of the construction work necessary, chiefly that on the Jasper road, will not be possible till next season.

The Checkerboard And Peace

"Britain's frontier is now the Rhine." This statement, made in the British House of Commons by Stanley Baldwin while acting premier during the absence, in Canada, of Ramsay MacDonald, and used to epitomize his plea for extension of Britain's aerial fleets, thrust into vivid prominence the situation in Europe, where the Rhine has become the frontier of neighboring states. Development of aircraft by continental powers has banished that security from hostile attack guaranteed heretofore by a powerful navy and the "chancery cliff of Dover". Automatically, her frontier has been pushed outward step by step with the growth of foreign air armadas and the increasing number of aerodromes.

Synchronizing, as it did, with the disturbing sequence of events which preceded and followed the assassination of Chancellor Doumer of Austria, the debate in the British house startlingly revealed the extent to which the atmosphere surrounding the European scene had been impregnated with fear of war. No wonder Baldwin's statements were peremptory; no wonder the chancery cliff of Dover, once secure, offers no effective guarantees of territorial integrity among the storm-tossed powers of Europe!

The fear of war can be traced directly to the militarization of Germany under Adolf Hitler, and the obvious ambition of the Nazis to extend the sphere of German influence until the Reich becomes dominant in Europe and Africa. Prior to the Austrian embroilment, a similar movement had been launched in Germany, and was followed in Germany by a corresponding ambition of territorial expansion west, east and south. The western front, marching with France and Belgium, had, of course, been "guaranteed" by the agreements contained in the Locarno treaty of 1925. Germany, France, Belgium, Great Britain and Italy had agreed, individually and collectively, to renounce the inviolability of the Franco-German and Belgian frontiers as defined by the Treaty of Versailles. There had also to be a complete demilitarization of German territory west of a line drawn east of the Rhine.

Agreements to respect to eastern boundaries, however, were not sanctified by as far-reaching commitments and mutual guarantees. It is true, there was a network of arbitration treaties involving Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and also France, but these were not considered sufficient to accept as inviolate and permanent her eastern border. In fact, the hope had been cherished assiduously in Berlin that sooner or later there would come a revision of the German-Polish boundary which would restore Danzig and the Polish Corridor to the Reich. It is this rift in the line of peace, diplomats of Europe are now seeking to close by means of what has been known as an "Eastern Locarno".

The "Eastern Locarno" pact now proposed calls for a mutual assistance agreement involving Russia, the Baltic States, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Germany, and would provide mutual guarantees of their respective frontiers and for mutual aid against an aggressor seeking to upset the status quo. As Germany is the one nation bound by the present arrangement, the present arrangement sets up the basis of the "Eastern Locarno" in its present form.

The actual significance of the proposed treaty is that Nazi Germany's ambitions would indeed be curbed. If Berlin signs (and it has been put squarely up to Hitler), it would mean voluntary acceptance of her present boundaries, all around. It would mean definite renunciation of the Polish corridor and Germanization to Upper Silesia. It would mean the stabilization of Europe in its present form. That apparently, is the key move to peace in the European checklist.

Apparently, too, "Locarno" is the formula of peace upon which European chancellories pin their greatest faith. In addition to the "Eastern Locarno", a similar treaty, known as the "Southern Locarno", designed to preserve the Mediterranean status quo and involving, probably, Turkey, Italy, Greece and Yugoslavia, also is mooted.

Curbing Crime

Feminine Crusade Against Crime Started in United States

A feminine crusade against crime—designed to eliminate depredations of the Dillinger type—recently came into existence in the United States Department of Justice.

The crusade has been given tremendous impetus recently by powerful women's organizations.

Women can play a most important part in the curbing of crime, said William Stanley, acting at attorney-general.

"They can compare the form of government of their locality with the form in localities where not so many crimes are committed. We plan to set up a central bureau to furnish such information."

"If they find an unusual amount of crime, it is certainly indication that there can be improvement. They can demand improvement."

A Sunday school teacher of modernistic tendencies was telling his class that the miracles recorded in the Bible were not to be taken too literally. "My people," he said, "then, by way of testing their knowledge of words, he asked, 'Can any of you tell me what an impression is?'" "Please, sir," said a shrill voice from the corner, "an impression is a dent in a soft spot."

Some Odd Professions

Many Queer Ways Of Earning Living In India

Apparently, the West has not the sole monopoly of queer ways of earning a living, for the following extract from a recent current Canadian Report on official publications of the government of India, and shows that there are in India such odd professions as those practised by: Sellers of Grasshoppers, Pouders of Water of God, and sellers of the Horns of Dead Birds, Setters of Gold Nails in Teeth, Breakers of Dead Bullock Horns, Cradle Swings, Professional Identifying Witches, Charity Receivers on Burial Grounds, Death Awarders by Charms and the like. Reminds one in addition to census tables reveal that altogether there are 37,775 people earning their living as horoscope casters, astrologers, wizards, witches, mediums and fortune-tellers.

Hotels In Sahara Desert

Had To Be Taken By Camel In

As the French penetrate further and further southward into the Sahara, pacifying the roving Arab tribes as they go, hotels are being erected for the accommodation of government officials, visiting army officers, business men and the occasional venturous tourist.

The hotels had to be taken south through the desert, in parcels.

Each parcel weighed about 200 lbs., and was one camel-load. Caravans of camels were sent to the south through the sands, brought to Timimoun, in the far south of Algeria, the many tons of windows, doors, glass, china, linens, cutlery, furniture, electric equipment, and other household necessities needed for the hotel local.

Neither foremen nor European laborers would agree to go there, so the place was built by French army engineers, who themselves had to trace to the south the first route, building beds, tents, the superstitious wild Arabs of the region feared the Evil Eye, and would not have anything to do with blue prints. They did consent to make the bricks, however, which were hauled by hand to drag up to the site the date-palm trunks forming the roof beams and "girder-work."

The rest had to come in parcels. Even the ships of the desert brought supplies, but the camels were unable to accept as inviolate and permanent the desert.

The camels would not travel on even such good hard roads as were to be found along their line of route, but had to be steered over soft sandy courses. Camels suffer from bad spells of foot soreness unless allowed soft tracks.

Drought In South Dakota

Guardia Patrol Water Holes In Western Part Of State

In the dry, fat camel-humper crops the waterless has brought paupers and meagre yields approaching a crop famine in South Dakota, the estimates of agricultural experts showed.

Already the federal government has loaned $300,000 into South Dakota for drought relief since September, 1932. This sum is exclusive of corn, hog and wheat benefits. Yet debts exist, mortgages are held on cattle and land.

C. J. Borum, agricultural statistician of the state college of agriculture at Brookings, estimated winter wheat would yield only 4.5 bushels to the acre. Forty-two thousand acres received only 296,000 acres which were planted.

Guardia patrol water holes in the western part of the state. Drinking water is carted to miles to be sold in some sections.

Japenews Develop New Art

Sculptography, by means of which persons or objects may be photographed in solid form, has been developed in Japan. Sculptography's greatest contribution to art, is in replacing the human element in the making of sculptures where exact likeness is more important than the artistic element. Just as photography replaced painting for such purposes, so sculptography has been replaced originally.

Model Hospital System

Irish Free State Using Sweepstakes To Further Project

With $1,000,000 and an equal amount awaiting distribution, the Irish Free State hospitals envision an early day when they will be the envy of the world's surgeons and medical students.

Administrative plans for the permanent endowment of the hospitals of the country are being laid by the hospital commission. The help of the League of Nations' health section has been invited so the commission can get best advice at the laying of the foundations of the project. Twelve sweepstakes have already been held.

Local hospital commissions, a body headed by Major L. B. T. Ross, former chief European engineer for Henry Ford, controls the vast sums which have been painlessly raised in every corner of the globe and prevents hazardous experiments by existing foundations.

While allowing sufficient cash to trickle out of the fund for current needs the commission is proceeding with its task of evolving a model hospital system for the Free State in which every institution will be co-ordinated with its neighbor.

Soviet Buying Arms

Newspaper Claims Shipments From East Going To Russia

A London newspaper says that it is able to reveal that the record exports of arms from Great Britain, amounting to £2,482,246, was due mainly to orders from Soviet Russia.

The arms consisted largely of machine guns and munitions. More than three-quarters of the total found their way to Russia.

The permission of Whitehead had to be secured for large shipments.

The reason for these rush orders is that Russia is feverishly preparing to meet the products of the world's armament factories in readiness for the struggle she believes is approaching with Japan.

The armaments business is phenomenally busy.

Although the figures stand so high, they would have been much larger owing to insisted demands of Poland, Czechoslovakia, but these instances applications for licenses by the munitions manufacturers have been turned down by the foreign office.

Flags Raised Huge Sun

Kitchener Flag Collected $150,000 For World War Fund

Flags which raised hundreds of thousands of dollars for helpless soldiers and refugees during the World War have just been presented to the Royal Government of Australia by Solomon of Melbourne. They are to be hung near the National War Memorial at Canberra when it is completed.

The most treasured relic of the Kitchener flag, which alone raised $150,000, is an Australian flag which was sent nearly 200,000 miles and twice around the world to collect signatures. It was signed in the trenches by Joffre and Foch. A strip from it was sent to Admiral Jellicoe when he signed and returned for sewing into the flag. The autographs of the King and Queen were later added.

Finally the flag was sent back to Australia where it was raffled in 1918.

On July 14, 1934, 15,000 lbs. 22 mares, 18 steers, 11 heifers, 6 cows, 3 bulls, 3 stallions, and 1 herd horse, all strays, were in the various official ports of Alberta.

The demand for hay in all the principal countries of the world arises from three main sources: (1) from domestic production (2) from various manufacturing trades—bakers, chemists, etc., and from the cattle trading.

According to the regulations governing fruit trading in Canada, the phrase "properly packed" means that apples, peaches, pears, plums, etc., are packed in the receptacle, are over-pressed, or in a condition which is likely to result in permanent damage during handling or transit.

No fruit of any kind intended for export is packed in any package smaller than the one required under the regulations of the Fruit and Honey Act, 1934, for each individual kind of fruit, except that where packages are not identified as for an individual kind of fruit, they may be packed for general use.

For the month of June exports of cattle to the United Kingdom were approximately 500 head smaller than for June, 1933, the movement being affected by market conditions, but for the second six months of the year the number of cattle exported to Great Britain exceeded last year's corresponding period by 1,343 head.

When honey from more than one source is included in one shipment under one inspection certificate, the person responsible for the honey in the shipment must place a designation with the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, on all lots of honey included in the shipment, for the purpose of identifying the packed.

Attention has again been drawn by the Livestock and Meat Trade Review, published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, to the evil of overloading the Monday livestock market. Such action is a drain on the time of supply and demand, and not among the evils is it that largely affects cattle of a value least able to support marketing costs, adding further costs to the carrier.

WHEN WE MADE LEMONADE

When we dust off your memory a trifle, we'll wager that you can see yourself in this picture.

A barefooted boy with plenty of stone bruises a dry goods box under a big tree in the front yard and near the road several empty glasses a pitcher of lemonade and there you were on a hot afternoon, with your dad engaged in your first business venture. Business was brisk we were selling two glasses of lemonade for a nickel but our prosperity of course invited competition.

One afternoon we opened up for business again at the same spot and down went our hearts to our bare feet because slapping us right in our faces was a big pasteboard on which was scrawled "Three big glasses of lemonade for a nickel". We looked at each other in dismay; we could see our trade leaving us and our business on the rocks. We decided to go down to the man who sold us our lemons and see if he would sell us the two glasses. He told us to get back on the job and keep up the quality of the lemonade for people would rather have two glass of good lemonade for five cents than three glasses of slop at the same price.

The raspberry is easily the most popular bush fruit grown on this side. Among the fruits it ranks second to the strawberries and, apart from raspberries grown in city lots and back gardens, the acreage of commercial plantations is estimated about 2,500. In raspberry culture, British Columbia is the leading province with Ontario second. Nova Scotia is not credited with any commercial production and neither are the provinces of Manitoba, Alberta or Saskatchewan. In spite of this, however, the number of bush berries eaten in the Dominion to a profitable extent and is found growing wild in one form or another from coast to coast and as far north as the delta of the Mackenzie River.

What, you may say, the Dominion's horticulturist is it small wonder the raspberry has become such an important and highly-prized fruit? Its commercial production is bound to increase and there would seem to be no good reason why there are groups which are not now recorded as producing commercial quantities should not be able profitably to increase their plantings in the very near future.

In giving judgement against a delinquent subscriber recently a Judge made the statement that newspaper publishers had a hard enough time finding their way around without being done out of their subscriptions. If a person wants to stop a newspaper, the proper way was for him to pay all arrears, and get a receipt from the publisher, then to call on the post office, and the have record made of his refusal. A man who owed for a newspaper could not stop taking a paper, and expect the publisher to go without his pay.

Deliveries of cream to the creameries of the province continue to show a substantial increase over last year.

Protein Content of Wheat

It is of the greatest importance to Canada as one of the chief grain producing countries of the world that all possible information from scientific inquiry should be obtained regarding the influence of heredity, of soil and seasonal conditions on the composition of the wheat berry. Already this inquiry has been prosecuted over a number of years by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and valuable data has been recorded. For instance, in a comparison of Marquis, Garnet and Reward wheat grown on nine Experimental Farms and Stations in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, the Reward stands the highest as to protein content, Marquis second and Garnet last. The average difference between Reward and Marquis is 1.62 per cent; between Reward and Garnet 2.62 per cent. The average protein content for five years at the nine stations was Marquis 16.49 per cent; Garnet 15.49 and Reward 18.11 per cent. Comparing the average for protein in the three provinces; Saskatchewan has given the highest (17.18); Alberta second (16.77) and Manitoba third (15.51 per cent).
